Sinful Pleasure: Anime.
Favorite Journalism Memory: Getting Paige to touch her elbows together and finally giving James the beating he deserves.
Other Interests: Burritos and "the routine" with Jeff.

MEET THE REPORTERS

- Clifton John Bachmeier.
- He was born on August 23, 1987.
- He likes to eat Thai food, especially if he's with Morgaine.
- He loves to help people and tries everyday to have a happy and satisfying life.
- 3 words that would describe him: curious, straightforward, and friendly.
- He likes to go to the countyside because "I like to explore wild nature, hike, and love lakes, rivers and waterfalls."
- His favorite movie is Garden State.
- If you could hang out with a teacher, who would you choose and what would you do? "Mrs. Shine and I would go to the poetry open mic."
- Any Latvian Memories: Singing and dancing to Latvian folk songs.
- One of his few weaknesses is a phobia of performing in public.
- What he sees first on a girl is her smile and how she enjoys life.
- What animal would you be? Free as a bird.
- Latvian or American girls: No comments.
- College Plans: CSU Longbeach.

- Justine Alvarez.
- Favorite Food: Chocolate.
- Guilty Pleasure: Nickelback.
- Biggest Turnoff: Scruff.
- What she wants to be when she grows up: Costume designer for the big films.
- Hobbies: Tennis, dancing, and art.
- Hero: Marilyn Monroe.
- If she was a animal what would she be?: A black cat.
- The best thing about working at the Hilltop Café?: Big tips.
- Favorite thing to do over the summer: Sleeping in and going to the beach.
- D.O.B.: April 19, 1988.
- Favorite Band: Coldplay.
- Overused Phrase: "Is this Healthy?"
- Favorite clothing item: Her Seven jeans.
- Favorite TV Show: Desperate Housewives.
- College Plans: San Francisco State University.

- Mandy Jacob.
- Born on February 25, 1988, the same day as George Harrison, and coincidentally, the Beatles are her favorite band.
- She lives on her own, and supports herself completely (Yes; no curfew, no rules, no parents).
- You've probably seen her riding her bike somewhere in Novato, and if not there, then definitely at Safeway.
- She's obsessed with anything that came out of the 30's, 40's, and 50's, especially movies, music, and men.
- Facts most people don't know: She still sleeps with a teddy bear, "I've had it since the day I was born. It's been with me through everything."
- If she met Paul Newman she would make out with him despite the age difference. Somewhat gross, but true.
- Hero: Her mom
- Favorite phrase: "Oy humbug."
- She is determined to marry Mike Ballestero despite what he says.
- What she lives by: "Something good can come out of any bad situation. Even if you think it isn't there, look harder and you'll find it."

- Hilary Johnson.
- Pet peeve: When you mix two different kinds of cereal.
- She donated her hair to "Locks for Love."
- She has a passion for the Red Hot Chili Peppers.
- Something people don't know: She is still a Girl Scout.
- She loves Alice in Wonderland.
- Sign: Cancer.
- Works at the Hilltop Café as a busser (only busser, not trained to be hostess).
- Favorite Food: Mexican, Indian, and Chinese.
- She made her very own homecoming dress sophomore and junior year.
- She has an "ampha" car (yes, a car that goes in the water).
- One time she got sunburned at a stoplight.
- Favorite Passover food: Matza ball soup.
- She went to charter school where she learned how to knit, sew, and garden.
- College Plans: Sonoma State.

- Kavon Banejad.
- He was born on July 15, 1988, in Concord. When he was born it was 116° F and it's the day people say the devil came to Earth.
- He enjoys playing soccer, wrestling, and working out.
- This year he was the only senior to win the MCAL Championships in Wrestling, competing in the 145 lb weight class. He compiled an undefeated MCAL record, pinning every opponent.
- He is a food connoisseur who enjoys gourmet food along with traditional Persian dishes.
- His favorite sandwich is the Black Forest Ham Panini from Tag's.
- He cannot live without pesto.
- His favorite colors are black and green.
- He has an uncanny joy for ping-pong, pool, and bowling.
- He will be attending UC Santa Barbara next year and will be majoring in Political Science and Business.
- He was a leadership junky, wasting his time for five years.
- His driver's license was revoked for too many speeding tickets.
- Words to live by: "Sh*t happens when you party naked!"

End of the year statistics:
 - '06 dubbed "Best freakin' class ever" by N.A.T.O.
 - Girl's Volleyball officially named "Best Spectator Sport," uniforms pending.
 - Final Score: Alex Randall (8,740), Everyone Else (3).
 - Most boring class ever: A tie between Econ and Physics.
 Last Words: Peace out.

Dear San Marin:

I would like to take this incredibly important Pony Express space to express how appreciative I am of your input and interest in my column. Sure, it may be cheap, trashy, and devoid of intelligence, but I had a lot of fun writing it during those bleak hours of Journalism. To all of you who read this column, thank you.

-Paul Himmelstein, Opinion Editor

P.S. For those curious, Miquelle Bagley will be replacing me next year. Try to treat her with the same respect you showed me: none.

Q: What is the difference between regular salt and Kosher salt?

A: Aside from being blessed by a Rabbi, Kosher salt actually has many unique traits. It is a larger crystal, with more surface area, which makes it very handy for curing meat! Exciting. Kosher salt also contains no additives, doesn't contain iodine, and is very good for salting margarita glasses (for all you drunks, Kosher rocks).

Q: What is the "fear of feet" called?

A: This is, honestly, the most difficult question I've been asked. After countless google-hits and frustrations, I have deemed that there are no feet-phobias, just fetishes. There isn't a scientific name for "feet phobia" on the grand phobia list, but Coulrophobia is the fear of clowns, Coulropedaphobia is the fear of clown feet, so you would think Pedaphobia is the fear of feet. But google says it is the fear of children, or dolls. The generally accepted term for fear of feet is Podophobia, even though it's not official.

Q: What is the outlook for Maine's lobster business?

A: From 1996-2000, the lobster business increased its catches from 16,000 metric tons to 25,000 metric tons. There are now bachelor lobstermen, and even lobsterwomen. However, with this amazing business spike, seasoned lobsterpeople have their criticisms. The main belief is that the industry cannot support its 60 million pounds a year business much longer, due to population. The boom has caught environmentalists attention, putting lobsters on the "eat with caution" list due to their decreasing numbers.

Q: Is it really illegal to have sex with your socks on in Idaho?

A: Changed my mind, this is more annoying than that feet phobia question above. The only thing I could find was information on sex offenders, "real" weird sex laws, and a bunch of sites that your little brother got caught on last week. Here are some fun things I found:

~An ordinance in Newcastle, Wyoming specifically bans couples from getting it on in a store's walk-in freezer.

~The only acceptable sexual position in Washington D.C. is the missionary position, all others are considered illegal.

And for the females out there:

~In Florida it is illegal for single, divorced, or widowed women to parachute on Sunday afternoon.

Q: Is pink lemonade made with pink lemons?

A: No, no, no. Do you see pink lemons at the store? I don't. Pink lemonade has an obviously different taste than its yellow brother, because they don't just put Red dye no. 7 in it. There are a variety of ways to make it, the most common being mixing some red cordial into lemonade. You can also use Grenadine, or go back to the red dye and use grapes (how, I don't know). Any you slice or squeeze it, pink lemonade is a damn fine drink.

Q: Does tomato juice really get rid of skunk smell?

B: If you take a bath in tomato juice, you won't smell like skunk. You'll just smell like a tomato. The truth is that the skunk smell is so overpowering that your nose gets tired of it. It binds the smell so tightly that you stop smelling it as much, also known as "olfactory fatigue." At this point, you just recently doused yourself or a pet in tomato juice, and the new smell dominates your nose. Eventually, the tomato smell will wear and leave you smelling the sweet aroma of a skunk's deriere.

Q: Why can't Keith Renner finish his sentences?

A: Unfortunately, I can't answer this because I couldn't get Keith's permission to answer it. I'm sure his answer would've been a good one though, whether he completed his sentences or not.

Q: If you're a senior, who will be taking over "Ask Paul" next year?

A: I'm sure everyone is dying to know the answer to this question. I am relinquishing all of my sweet awesomeness to sophomore Miquelle Bagley. Whether the column name will stay the same or will be changed to something completely stupid like "Ask Miquelle," I have no idea. If you have any ideas for a future name, call James Gramalia's house at 4 a.m., and leave a really loud message.

Annie McIsaac - Changing the world.

Jeff McLaughlin - Turning tricks on a street corner.

Matt Gazzano - Married with pretty good jobs. Some in jail.

Beth Sekishiro - We'll be infuriating our employers with our dastardly combination of brains and laziness.

Paige Thelen - Still overachieving and changing the world at the same time.

Katt Knecht - We'll be brilliant wealthy superhero doctors by day and hitting the bong by night.

Paul Himmelstein - ... Future?

Kristen D'Angelo - Adopt "Krakorisms" and model our lives after Ghandi.

Chandni Pindoria - Everyone will be working on their 2nd Ph.D.

Annie Rollison - They will be exactly where they want to be, unless in harm's way.

Dina Rosenberg & Julie Kern - At a dance party in Sara Keller's New York penthouse, with Keith Renner as the bartender and Jeremie Barbe stealing the goods.

Jessica Bousquette - Running the world and still trying to find a cleaner and more efficient way to chalk the hill.

Matt Smith - We will be scattered across the world loving life.

Lormuy Vong - We'll have families, be working, and continuing education.

Shaun Greenhalgh - Celebrating the 10-year anniversary of you asking this question.

Andrew McKay - Pretty much nothing.

Jeff Rosell - Probably still trying to find a house to have a party at.

Tanner Davis - Being superseniors at Chico.

Greg Magadini - Going to Adult Summer School.

Chris Moghbel - The class of '06 will have gained dominion over the entire world in a totalitarian empire masterminded by Jared Prudhomme and with an army of Marty clones to keep the peace.

Mike Mann - Doing work on research to help cure diseases.

Ross Mathewson - Begging for change.

Clint Potter - We will own Mexico but spend all the money on cervezas and nachos and have to sell it to '08...damn, they're good.

Stacey Boven - They will still be pathetically fighting over chalking the hill.

Jenice Bartee - Almost everyone will be extremely successful and married. We have a wonderful class that is motivated and passionate.

Dan Saslow - Up in smoke.

Trelasa Baratta - Uh, like working and stuff.

Roger Klein - We will all be having our own jobs and be truly happy doing them.

Leilani Gilpin - Waiting anxiously for our 10-year reunion after burning out in college.

Justine Montoya - I can see most of our class as very successful adults, the rest will remain kids playing beer pong.

J.J. Miller - Running the world and showing our houses on CRIBS.

SENIOR MEMORIES

T.J. Anderson - Having a wrestling tournament with Daniel Hunter in the middle of English class.

Clif Bachmeier - The 2005 Talent-No Talent Show. The class of '06 as sophomores stood up for the senior '04 class against the class of '05 chalking the hill and the administration kicking them out of the rally.

Kavon Banejad - Watching the Terra Linda wrestler cry out in pain as I took the MCAL title.

Jenny Bankie - McBrizzle's pre-calc class.

Trelasa Baratta - When Megan Faherty danced Napolean Dymomite-style during a rally.

Jenice Barte - The summer after Junior year, when it was just me and all the boys having BBQ's, parties, hanging out at Chris Haller's and just being one of the guys.

Nic Basile - Completing the J. Robinson 28-day Intensive Wrestling Camp in Minnesota alongside Doug Collins.

Cathryn Bennett - 5° Berberian Senior Class! FOR SURE! And ALL of freshman year!

Jessica Bousquette - Acting more my age in Once on this Island and singin' and dancin' in the rain.

Morgaine Breimayer - Getting kicked out of rallies.

Danny Burns - Winning NCS in baseball as a junior.

Stephen Byers - During a normal weekday football practice midseason, putting THE FATTEST BEATDOWN on poor Mike DePew. This was a monster Flatback. Many witnessed but no one can speak of the tragedy.

Melissa Corner - Homecoming rallies.

Jon Crowhurst - When my JV football team went undefeated and won MCAL junior year.

Marty Cunnie - Friday night lockdowns, Sus jogging around the track in bra.

Kristen D'Angelo - Group trip to France and England the summer before junior year.

Mikey Delosa - Tham- Walking into the bathroom by the gym and it smelling like the art department...or Mozetti's clothes.

Mike DePew - The first time chalking the hill and the time we did? all that sh*t at that one place.

Jennie DiStefano - Never have I ever- Scott Menasco's. Every single second of freshman year!

Maja Divjakinja - When Vicki Setting and I beat up two Novato girls at the Square.

Colin Donlevy - My friend getting puked on... enough said.

Lauren Dumont - The infamous jungle at Scotty's house and getting picked up by Jackie everyday before school and blasting our sweet jams.

Nicole Egli - Mr. Lacy's class.

Nathan Ely - Going to Australia freshman year.

Natalie Ernst - Definitely something to do with the music department.

Avi Fernandez - Sending Mr. Spinrad a singing Valentine gift and seeing the look on his face!

Kevin Gannon - Playing Three Flies Up during class.

Emma Gauci - 2° Calculus yardidimean?

Leilani Gilpin - The birthday cakes in Mr. McBroom's precalculus class junior year.

Pat Graham - First week of summer vacation going into senior year. Enough said.

Allison Green - The Cinco de Mayo celebration of 2004 during lunch. The mariachi band was great but the tacos were too filling.

Shaun Greenhalgh - Last day of school junior year, slip 'n' sliding in the rain.

Alison Gregg - Being a part of the Homecoming Rally by dressing up as McBroom.

Paul Himmelstein - Sus and Marty at Halloween with all sorts of stuff hanging out.

Hilary Johnson - Staying Active in P.E. with Val Chao.

Kristen Jones - Annie Lowe, Rachael Shotz, and I attempting to chalk the hill.

Sara Keller - Jungle...Never have I ever...Scott's house, every memory from freshman year in the party on wheels.

Jackie Kendall - '06 Jungles.

Julie Kern - Taking fully clothed showers every 30 seconds at Chris Haller's blacklight dance party, and the next few days that none of us remember, and the daily sex talks of 4° English.

Roger Klein - My 2005 cross-country team's trip down to Mt. Sac.

Katt Knecht - Watching lightning make these awesome patterns in New Orleans and talking about unicorns.

Brian BK Kriesler - Mark Schneider and his candy thong.

Jeff LaRocca - Flex days in Academy.

Holly Long - 6° Precal with T. McBreezy junior year.

Greg Magadini - When there was a fight and Rudy socked one of the kids.

Mike Mann - Beating Redwood in out last volleyball game last year at home.

Ross Mathewson - Homecoming before the puke-fest.

Liz Maurer - Senior sleepover, the night before the first day of school, experiencing Maria Baum's poolside jungle show.

Max McDonald - When those two diverse girls fought at break freshman year.

Annie McIsaac - Spending summer '03 with Alex and Scott <3. 4th period talks senior year. Beating Drake junior year. The day Mr. Krakora's back was out.

Jeff McLaughlin - Spending my 18th birthday at a drama festival...but having Alex, Keith, Skip, Annie, Hailstorm, and everyone in Drama make it not lame.

Scott Menasco - Leadership Class freshman year with Mr. Lacy, that was a great introduction to high school.

J.J. Miller - Roasting marshmallows for s'mores in IPS freshman year.

Chris Moghbel - When everyone got kicked out of the rally sophomore year.

Justine Montoya - Starting my Bronco in Autoshop after months of working on it.

Billy Nicolini - Winning NCS my junior year for baseball.

Zach Norman - It's a toss-up between playing the Cuervo-drinking Hernando in The Pajama Game or playing music with Stinson's Law at school. I just can't decide.

Lacey Packard - All of Mr. Lacy's stories.

Jarrell Pegeron - Definitely tripping and falling in the middle of the school and breaking my finger on the first day of freshman year.

Marco Perez - SM Show Choir ruling the dance floor at RAVES. The euphoria of beating Sara Keller for the Junior election, the Marco chanting, and then ironically being forced to resign from? the position.

Chandni Pindoria - 6° Pre-calculus in junior year with Mr. McBroom (a.k.a. T. McBreezy!)

Dana Pratt - Being in music all four years and meeting the best friends of my life. Oh ya, and Clear Lake.

Victoria Ramiro - 5th period, Mr. Berb's class, I LOVE THAT CLASS!!

Keith Renner - Mark Schneider wearing a candy thong.

Richie Riboli - When Austin Koren pulled a chair out from under Maja and she fell hard.

Annie Rollison - Sophomore bio, greatest table ever!!

Jeff Rosell - The Barnyard Boogie not at Walker Creek

Co-salutatorians

Holly Long

by Alex Randall

Holly was not the most outspoken person in Mr. McBroom's pre-calculus class last year. In fact, with a classroom including Marty Cunnie, Chris Haller, Bri Jayne, and Casey Mokres, she occasionally went unnoticed. However, have a conversation with students from that class about the adventures of 6th period in room 502, and guaranteed, they will mention Holly. Why? On the last day of math class last year, Holly strolled in with thirty copies of a list of quotes. It was soon revealed that Holly, out of sheer boredom, had transcribed the humorous exchanges in that class throughout the year (there were plenty to choose from). Besides her peculiar ways to spend class time, Holly's cleverness and dedication, coupled with a knack for academic excellence, have earned her the honor of 2006 co-salutatorian.

Although citing Mark Twain's quip "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do the day after" as her senior quote, her constant bouts with procrastination haven't kept her from getting straight A's over the last four years. Holly has never been one to turn down an intellectual challenge: her first semester schedule this year was composed of nothing but AP courses, allowing her to become one of only two people in the senior class to receive a 5.0 on a report card.

While often busy with schoolwork, Holly still makes time to stay active in both the community and athletics. She, an animal lover, volunteers weekly at the Humane Society and plans to work at a veterinary hospital over the summer. Holly is also an active member of both CSF and Interact, two community service-based San Marin clubs. Sportswise, Holly ended her 10-year soccer career after two years on the high school squad, but she has recently taken up running as a hobby.

Heading to UCSB next year as a biology major, Holly will enjoy "meeting new people" and "being in Santa Barbara."

Briana Van Epps

by Alex Randall

For anyone who's walked into Mr. Berberian's classroom and pondered the existence of the ABBA posters on his walls, be confident that one of our 2006 co-salutatorians is the culprit. Along with being an outstanding student and a determined athlete, Briana Van Epps is also a diehard fan of the Swedish pop group ABBA. Yet, her passion for the works of Anni-Frid, Björn, Benny, and Agnetha, however great, is still shadowed by her enthusiasm in school.

Throughout her four years at San Marin, Briana has maintained a schedule demonstrative of a unique academic prowess. Succeeding in Honors English as a freshman and sophomore, she proceeded to take eight AP courses during her upperclassman years, the maximum number of Advanced Placement classes that can be taken by a San Marin student. These classes, however "advanced," could not blemish her record, as she earned A's in all of them and subsequently received 5's on both the AP Language and History exams last spring. Along with handling this rigorous workload, Briana has remained a loyal member of the San Marin Music Department, singing with Concert Choir for her first two years and Jazz Choir for her last two.

Her unhindered determination is again demonstrated in her extracurricular activities. An avid runner, Briana has been a four-year member of the Cross Country team and a three-year member of the Track and Field team, qualifying this year for the Redwood Empire meet for the 3200m. Regardless of her busy schedule, Briana is currently being tutored in Swedish, pursuing her love for languages. Lastly, adding to her brilliant resume, Briana is a lifetime member of CSF and won a National Merit scholarship for her performance on the PSAT.

Briana will be entering UC Berkeley as a Linguistics major in the fall, looking forward to "learning things I want to learn," and always keeping in mind that "life's too short not to be Swedish."

Athlete of the Year

Alison Greggor

by Alex Randall

Describing Alison Greggor as being a goal-setter would be making an understatement; rather, she is a goal-achiever. This year alone, Alison claimed ownership of three San Marin track records: the 800m (2:20.7), the 1600m (5:00.5), and the 3200m (11:17.2). As the best female runner ever to attend San Marin High, Alison is the Pony Express's Athlete of the Year.

As a youngster, lack of coordination kept Alison from participating in most sports. It didn't, however, keep her from leaving the boys in the dust during schoolyard races. She made both running teams in her freshman year at San Marin., looking up to senior Zoe Brown as a role model. When Zoe left, Alison continued to develop as an athletic force, despite missing the cross-country season sophomore year because of a fractured hip.

At the beginning of her senior year, Alison set out to leave her name in the record books, and that, she has done. She also qualified for the State Championships in the mile, in which she ranked 16th. Her favorite accomplishment however, was taking first in all three of her runs at the MCAL championships

Along with her incredible athletic talent, Alison also displays in both the classroom and theatre. Her first semester of senior year, Alison earned herself a GPA of 5.0. Her fall semester also included an outstanding performance as a leading role as "Mama" in the Drama Department's production of I Remember Mama.

This coming fall, Alison will begin attendance at UC Berkeley. She has been recruited to run on both their Cross-Country and Track teams where she looks forward to "a chance to challenge [herself]" in collegiate athletics.
